

Lennon's Story

I was born in Singapore. I studied my 'O' and 'A' levels there before entering the Singapore Armed Forces to perform my national service. I left the army as an Infantry Officer (LTA) to pursue my dream of becoming a vet in the UK.

It was tough studying in a foreign country so far away from home. I became independent very quickly and worked hard to complete my studies. I graduated happily in 2004.

My first job brought me to Devon, a place which I fell in love with and knew that this was where I wanted to be. After a short stint as a mixed vet, I developed my skills in the companion animal sector, treating pets exclusively. In 2007, I achieved my certificate in veterinary acupuncture. Which was something I always knew I would do, and I'm proud to be able to utilise this skill to help animals without using drugs.

I became a very confident surgeon due to natural interest. This led me to embark on a medicine certificate as I felt I needed to 'balance' my surgical bias. Hence, I like to think that I am able to offer a more rounded treatment option instead of just thinking like a medic or a surgeon.

Above all interests, I knew that I always wanted to run a practice, doing things my way as I felt there was plenty of room for improvement and how the veterinary service could be delivered to customers. And it is with this dream and aspiration that Amity was created.

I look forward to providing you with the unique Amity Experience.
